Product Description

Y-903Split type flat chest pushing trainer

The product is made of high-precision steel pipe welding, and the connecting plate is made of thickened steel plate, making the connection more firm and reliable. The rotating position adopts precision silent bearings, which are flexible in movement and reduce noise. The surface of the product adopts commercial specialized spraying technology, with good rust prevention ability and beautiful appearance. The appearance color can also be customized according to customer requirements. The product back cushion adopts a fixed installation to avoid instability during training. The back cushion is covered with high-quality leather, which is soft and elastic.
