The four head fascia gun is a type of fascia gun equipped with four massage heads. It may have the following characteristics and advantages:

Multiple massage heads: The four head fascia gun is usually equipped with massage heads of different shapes and functions to meet the massage needs of different parts. For example, a spherical head is suitable for large muscle groups, a flat head is suitable for the waist and back, a conical head is suitable for joints and acupoints, and a U-shaped head is suitable for the neck and Achilles tendon.

Massage effect: The fascia gun acts on the deep layers of the muscles through high-frequency vibration, helping to relax the muscles, relieve fatigue, and promote blood circulation. The design of multiple massage heads can provide more massage options to better treat different parts.
